

ADULT DOG VACCINATIONS

Fairfield VH recommends yearly health exams and vaccinations including a bordetella vaccination booster prior to boarding. Rabies vaccinations are given within the specified guidelines of the law. Your veterinarian will examine your dog on each vaccination visit and is included in the fee schedule.

DHPP Combination

Distemper	Severe fever, sneezing, anorexia, vomiting. Secondary bacterial infections are common and may be fatal.
Hepatitis	Virus causing inflammation of the liver, severe kidney damage and death.
Parvo	Severe weakness, vomiting, diarrhea that is often bloody. High mortality rate, particularly in puppies.
Parainfluenza	Respiratory Disease causing coughing and discomfort throughout the body.

BORDETELLA	RABIES
Highly contagious upper respiratory disease that can result in bacterial pneumonia.	Severe damage to the central nervous system which can progress to paralysis and death. Contagious to humans this vaccination is required by law.

Vaccines

Receiving a quality vaccination is imperative to protect your pet from disease. Vials that are not shipped, handled or stored correctly can render them weak or impotent. Fairfield Veterinary Hospital adheres to strict handling and storage protocols to ensure your pet's health and safety.

PUPPY VACCINATIONS

We recommend that puppies receive vaccinations at 8, 12, and 16 weeks of age. The veterinarian will examine your puppy at each visit.

Age	DHPP	Bordetella	Rabies
8 weeks	1st
12 weeks	2nd	1st
16 weeks	3rd		1st

Sometimes breeders have an extra DHPP set done at 6 weeks. This set should be repeated at 8, 12 and 16 weeks.
